PWS HOSTS A SPRING PICNIC SALES EVENT

Picture this, all week long it had been raining and you had invited over one thousand people to an outdoor picnic. Such was the case for PWS during the week leading up to Saturday, March 26th, but in spite of the weather, the results were amazing. In Southern California, the weather broke on Saturday and although it was a bit chillier than usual, the outdoor event was attended by more than 350 people. In Northern California, the rains continued, but so did the picnic under the cover of tents, and over 300 brave souls made the trip to South San Francisco.

What was the big draw you might ask? Well, first off store owners were anxious to take advantage of the really special discount on repair parts; in fact PWS broke all previous one day parts sale records. Second, owners were hungry for information on the care and maintenance of their equipment. The nearly continuous service classes, hosted by Alliance service technicians, were attended by hundreds of attentive store owners. PWS offered great deals on washers and tumblers and featured free freight, competitive pricing and financing with interest only payments for a year; and finally, there was plenty of picnic food to send everyone home with a warm and fuzzy feeling regardless of the weather. Brad Pollack, President of PWS said that “the number of folks that attended and the enthusiasm they displayed was truly encouraging after a winter that was tarnished by the depressed economy.”
